

Cookie Policy

Jones Nuttall uses cookies to remember you. They are needed to allow our website to function properly, and we also use them to improve your online experience.

By using our website, we're assuming you're happy with our use of cookies. If you have any questions about it, do get in touch with us at sales@jonesnuttall.co.uk

What's a cookie?

Cookies are small text files generated by the website you're viewing. They allow the website to store information as you browse. Web cookies contain data that can be used to make your browsing experience better.

Cookies are safe for your computer. They only store information used by your browser. They can't access any other content on your computer, nor do they create malware or viruses.

How does Jones Nuttall use cookies?

Here are the key ways we use cookies. We also sometimes allow third parties to place cookies. We've included some examples of who these third parties are below. Please note we have no control over third party cookies, they are likely to be analytical/performance cookies.

To help navigate around our website and use its features

Get a quote: they remember information you give us, like your postcode, so we can generate a quote.

To help spot problems and improve the experience of our website

Web Analytics: we use programs like Google Analytics and AMI IP Tracker to help us find out how many people visit our website, where they came from, what devices they used, which pages they visited, and what information they are searching for. This enables us to improve our website to optimize the user experience.

How do I turn off cookies?

Most browsers enable cookies by default, but you can delete or block cookies in your browser settings. The website aboutcookies.org gives helpful information about how you can delete or block cookies in different browsers. We are not responsible for the information on this website, but we're happy to recommend it. Blocking cookies will mean that parts of our website, and other websites you visit, may no longer function properly.

All cookies with the exception of essential cookies will expire after 14 days.
